

FreeCEN Newsletter – October 2026

Hello All

Welcome to the FreeCEN newsletter for October, and 33 new pieces have been added to the website over the last month, around 191,000 entries between these pieces. Details at the end of this newsletter.

These newsletters are sent on a monthly basis, and are usually sent out around the 4th of the month.

Congratulations to the Pembrokeshire team of transcribers as the 1861 census for this county is now fully transcribed and available for you to search on the FreeCEN website.

FreeUK Genealogy as a registered charity has a number of obligations it needs to meet. One of these is keeping a record of how many FreeCEN volunteers are actually active. To go with this FreeCEN earlier in the year identified all those who have not signed into the website for two or more years and changed their status to inactive.

FreeCEN plans to do the same next month and this time round it will be those who have not signed into the website for 18 months or more whose status will be changed to inactive. For those of you who regularly access the members only area of the website for reasons such as accessing the gazetteer or uploading a transcript this change will not affect you

Any questions on this please do contact your coordinator. And if you are one of those whose status does get changed to inactive your coordinator can easily make you active again.

Sources of Scans for Transcribing

Do you have access to any census images? If so then you may be able to help FreeCEN. We have people to transcribe the census but we are short of images for a good number of localities.

FreeCEN can accept loans or donations of scans, or is willing to buy scans (at reasonable prices), provided they originate from one of the following sources:

- Archive CD Books
- Stepping Stones CD's/DVD's (some restrictions apply)
- Family History Society CD's/DVD's (must come with written permission to use)
- Microfiche/Microfilms (must come with written permission to use)

Only scans from one of the four sources listed above can be accepted.

Can you help us with this? If so, do make contact with us and give us the details of what you have.

A reminder about transcription sources

We know that some of the images or scans available from approved sources can be difficult to read, so transcribers might understandably be tempted to use a clearer version from a paid subscription site such as Ancestry or Findmypast.

Please do not use these sites as a source for FreeCEN transcription. Their terms of use may restrict how records and images can be used, and using a personal subscription for FreeCEN transcription could breach those terms. This may put your account at risk, including possible suspension or termination by the provider.

Please only transcribe from sources that have been approved for FreeCEN use. If you are unsure whether a source is suitable, you can check with your coordinator before starting.

Contribution Guidelines

Contributions are welcome, and all received are considered. These should be emailed to Chris Mahoney (chris.mahoney@freeukgenealogy.org.uk).

They can be in any format, but I do have three particular requests with contributions:

1. Please do include a scanned image of the census record referred to (if appropriate) along with relevant source information (i.e. piece number, folio number, page number, and schedule number)
2. With any images, please include copies in their original format such as jpg or png (much easier to work with than copying one out of your article)
3. If you have quoted another source (or copied an image from somewhere), please quote what that source is

Previous FreeCEN Newsletters

Past editions of the newsletter are now available to download from the FreeCEN website. Or go to the “About” page, and then look on the right hand side under “See Also”.

The previous twelve are there now, all in downloadable PDF format (can also be read in some internet browsers). Older editions available on request.

Volunteer for FreeCEN

Like what you see in these newsletters? Has our website helped you with your family research? Then please consider helping to expand our database. We have plenty of coordinators who would welcome you as a member of their team.

You need only basic computer skills and you can use any spreadsheet app. We provide plenty of help and support. We also supply the scans.

Use this link to the Volunteer page or select “Volunteer” in the purple menu bar near the top of any page on the website.

News from Denise Colbert (Q2 July to September 2026)

(Chief Operating Officer, Free UK Genealogy CIO)

Hello everyone

In my last update, I wrote that the foundations we had been putting in place were starting to bear fruit. Over the past three months, several of those things have moved from preparation into use.

FreePRO is perhaps the clearest example. In September, our first group of volunteers began working with the transcription editor on probate records from 1900–1925. The software helps identify potential problems, but volunteers still compare the text with the original images and make corrections, reminding us that technology can help enormously without replacing the careful human work at the heart of our projects.

We have had to be pragmatic about some of our more ambitious uses of AI, particularly where costs proved difficult to predict, and there have been changes within the development team. For now, the priority is getting good-quality data into the database and building from there.

We now need another five or six volunteers to help move FreePRO forward. If you would like to help check and correct probate records to get them into the searchable database, please email

FreePRO.volunteers@freeukgenealogy.org.uk.

FreePRO also finally has its colour. Supporters who pledged through last year's Big Give campaign voted, as promised, and Royal Blue was the winner.

In FreeREG, there has been a significant step forward for FreeComETT-REG too. Last quarter I wrote that Hilary's return to development, together with Stephen Coward's involvement as Programme Manager, was helping the project regain momentum. At the end of September, FreeREG Coordinators were shown the tool in action, including direct transcription from register images, different layouts and controls to make images easier to read.

There is still work and testing ahead, but after a long development journey it was good to see something tangible in front of some of the people who will use it. The aim remains to have a usable first version by the end of the year.

FreeREG has also welcomed Helen Boughton as Coordinator for Cumberland and Gillian Lane for Leicestershire, both moving into the roles from within the existing volunteer community. Work is continuing on clearer guidance for volunteer photographers and on building stronger relationships with archives so that we can keep bringing new source material into the project.

In FreeCEN, the proofreading challenge I mentioned last quarter has become much clearer. In September we wrote that around 13 million records have already been transcribed but are still waiting to move towards publication. They need to be proofread before they can progress to validation and ultimately become searchable.

If helping us clear our proofreading backlog and get new records available for researchers is something you could be interested in, please drop me an email.

The new FreeBMD, meanwhile, is moving into a new planning phase: we listened to user feedback, fixed bugs and made enhancements, and now we're deciding what comes next. Janet Kwakye has joined as volunteer Project Manager, while content volunteer Natalie Reed has been looking at refreshing the text and guidance on the site. "Getting Started" information is being developed for people who are less familiar with family history searching.

We still have challenges ahead because more people still prefer to use the original FreeBMD than the new site, somewhat understandably. Janet's team is looking at what users value in the old site, what is missing from the new one and what would make the new FreeBMD genuinely more useful.

Across all our projects, we are also beginning to see the benefit of strengthening the support around project teams. Since Stephen took on the Programme Manager role, more day-to-day responsibility has been moving into individual projects, supported by volunteer Project Managers, rather than depending so heavily on the same few people.

The Project Trustee opportunity I mentioned last quarter also went live, and we promoted it directly to our volunteer communities because we want the board to benefit from somebody who understands our projects from the inside. Applications will close at the end of October, so please do apply and/or share. You can view the full Project Trustee role and apply on Reach.

What makes Free UK Genealogy distinctive remains clear: free access, high-quality records, openness, and a remarkable community of volunteers willing to share their time and knowledge. Our job is to build a sustainable future around those strengths.

Thank you, as always, for everything you contribute. Whether you transcribe, proofread, coordinate, develop, test, take photographs, answer questions or welcome new people, you are part of that progress.

FreeCEN Coords Meeting Notes – September 2026

Thank you to everyone who joined our September Coordinators' Meeting. It was good to welcome Cheryl Meggers, our new Sussex Coordinator, and to have a wide-ranging discussion about some of the practical challenges facing FreeCEN – particularly proofreading, access to images and coordinator support.

We need more proofreaders!

One message came through particularly strongly: proofreading is currently one of the biggest bottlenecks preventing completed transcriptions from reaching the live FreeCEN database.

There are substantial backlogs in some counties, and finding volunteers who want to move from transcription into proofreading or validation can be difficult. We discussed several ideas, including recruiting specifically for proofreading, pairing transcribers and proofreaders as “buddies”, and making it easier for new volunteers to tell us whether they are interested in transcribing, proofreading or validating.

Cheryl's own journey from transcriber to proofreader and validator was highlighted as a great example, and we hope to turn her experience into a short testimonial to encourage others to give proofreading a try.

Finding more census images

Access to suitable images remains a major challenge for a number of counties. We are continuing to look at legitimate sources of census images, including Archive CD Books and Stepping Stones, while exploring other possibilities.

Coordinators were also reminded about CAP, which provides a useful breakdown of the census images FreeCEN already holds. Once logged in, coordinators can select their county under Manage Counties and access the CAP report from the county actions.

Civil parish changes

We also talked about delays when civil parish changes are needed before pieces can be incorporated. Requests take time as the current process depends heavily on one person.

Chris Mahoney will look at exactly what is involved, what access and training are needed and whether another volunteer could be trained to help. This should help us understand how we can make the process more resilient and reduce the backlog.

Tell us your FreeCEN stories

We would love coordinators to send us more news from their counties. This could be a milestone reached, an interesting piece of work completed, a new initiative, a fascinating person discovered in the census – or simply a good story about one of your volunteers.

Positive stories about proofreading would be especially welcome. These can help us show volunteers just how important proofreading is in getting records online and freely searchable.

Transcription guidance

There was an interesting discussion about using websites such as Ancestry, Findmypast and FamilySearch when trying to decipher difficult entries.

For now, the underlying FreeCEN principle remains “type what you see” from the source image provided for the project. Whether other services can be used to help resolve uncertain entries depends upon their individual terms and conditions, and clearer guidance for volunteers is still needed.

Could you help shape the future of FreeCEN?

The FreeCEN Steering Committee is currently without a Chair and has therefore been unable to meet regularly. We would particularly welcome more coordinator representation on the Steering Committee.

The Committee helps provide leadership for FreeCEN, identifies priorities and risks and helps organise the work needed to address them. If this sounds like something you might be interested in, please do consider getting involved.

Save the date – our next Coordinators' Meeting

Our next FreeCEN Coordinators' Meeting is planned for:

Monday 21 December 2026 at 09:00 UK time.

Please note the slightly earlier start time, which is intended to make the meeting more accessible to our overseas coordinators at that time of year.

Action for all coordinators: please send Helen Bainbridge any subjects, questions or issues you would like included on the agenda for this December meeting.

Volunteering Opportunities with FreeREG

Can you help FreeREG grow as a County Coordinator? We have several counties with images and transcribers and a caretaker coordinator following retirements. If you're familiar with transcribing, organised, supportive and confident with digital tools, this flexible home-based volunteer position is ideal for stepping into the role for the first time.

About the opportunity

FreeREG is part of Free UK Genealogy, a charity providing free online access to millions of family history records so people can discover and share their family and community stories. Our work depends on dedicated volunteers who transcribe and publish historic parish and register records for public benefit.

We are looking for committed volunteers from within the FreeREG and/or Free UK Genealogy community to take on the role of County Coordinator.

County Coordinators play an important part in helping FreeREG run smoothly. You will support transcribers working on records for your county, help manage the flow of images and data, and act as a key point of contact for both volunteers and researchers.

The role includes:

- Supporting transcribers who have completed training and helping them with questions or issues
- Working with archives and photographers to obtain register images
- Uploading and organising images on the FreeREG Image Server where permitted
- Recruiting and supporting volunteer transcribers as needed
- Assigning transcription work and reviewing submissions to help maintain high standards
- Responding to enquiries and correction requests from researchers and volunteers
- Making updates or corrections to records where necessary

The role is remote (from anywhere in the world) and flexible, with an estimated commitment starting from 4 to 6 hours per week. Most communication takes place online through email and occasional Google Meet video calls.

At present we have a number of counties where the coordinator has retired and the county is being temporarily managed by a caretaker coordinator. These counties have existing images and transcribers so are a great opportunity for someone to step into the role as a County Coordinator for the first time.

You will be supported by the wider FreeREG and Free UK Genealogy volunteer community, including our training volunteers, existing FreeREG coordinators and the project leadership team.

This is an excellent opportunity for someone already familiar with FreeREG who would like to take a more active role in supporting the project and helping preserve accessible family history records for future generations.

How Coordinators help FreeREG

FreeREG relies entirely on volunteers to create and maintain high-quality transcriptions of historic parish and register records. County Coordinators are central to making that work possible.

By supporting transcribers and helping organise the flow of records and images, you will help ensure that valuable historical information becomes freely available online for researchers, historians, and families around the world.

The role also helps maintain the accuracy and consistency of our records. Your support and oversight will help volunteers feel confident and connected, improving both volunteer retention and the quality of published transcriptions. County Coordinators also help strengthen relationships with archives and photographers, making it possible for FreeREG to continue expanding the range of records available to the public.

Every new set of records published can help someone uncover a family connection, understand their local history, or break through a long-standing research problem. Your contribution will directly support that work and help preserve historical information that might otherwise remain difficult to access.

As Free UK Genealogy continues developing its projects and volunteer community, County Coordinators play an essential role in sustaining and growing FreeREG for the future.

What qualities and experience are required for the role?

We are looking for someone who is organised, approachable, and comfortable supporting other volunteers.

You should have:

- An interest in family history and experience as a FreeREG and/or Free UK Genealogy transcriber
- Familiarity with parish registers, bishops' transcripts, or nonconformist records
- An appreciation for the scholarly nature of FreeREG's work and understanding of the importance of producing, accurate, and authoritative transcriptions. We place greater importance on quality and reliability than on volume.
- Good computer skills, particularly using internet browsers and spreadsheets
- Confidence communicating by email and through online meetings
- Good organisational skills and attention to detail
- The ability to respond to enquiries in a timely and supportive way

It would be beneficial if you have the ability to attend Google Meet video calls using a computer with a camera and microphone.

Interesting Persons – Robert Algeo

(From Brian Collins)

On the latest piece I came across Robert Algeo at 1 Menai Villa Terrace. I thought the name looked a little odd but as he was listed as surveyor for Anglesey I thought he may appear somewhere on the internet. Sure enough he was there.

14	1 Menai Villa Ter	1	Anne Williams	Serv	do	22	Housemaid	do	22	Housemaid	do
			Robert Algeo	Head	do	63	Surveyor for Anglesey	do	63	Surveyor for Anglesey	do
			Jane Williams	Serv	do	36	Servant	do	36	Servant	do

(Extract of Caernarfonshire 1881 piece RG11_5574)

He is listed on Find a Grave. It looks like he lived for another 22 years after his entry in this piece and appears to have done rather well for himself. One problem with his entry is his POB which is unclear. I was hoping to find more information on this but at the moment I have drawn a blank. Unfortunately it looks like the name Algeo is quite common in county Donegal which is the only part of his POB that is clear. The photos are of his grave which shows it to be overlooking the Menai Straits with a view of Thomas Telford's railway bridge in the background. This has been modified relatively recently to have a road deck on top of the railway deck.

Interesting Persons – George Lothian Hall

(From Brian Collins)

On 1881 piece RG11_5574 there is one schedule with an address called 'The Bank' with the family headed by Thomas Hughes a tea dealer. Schedule includes a boarder named George L Hall who was listed as being a landscape artist. I can't resist looking people like this, so I did!

161	The Bank	1	Thomas Hughes	Head	Mar	39	Tea Merchant	Caernarvon. Ship Dealer
			Margt. A. do	Wife	Mar	25		Anglesey Llanochrysiddet
			Annie M. do	Daughter		4		do Menai Bridge
			John E. do	Son		2		do do
			Laura E. Roberts	Serv	Widow	15	Domestic Serv.	Lancashire Liverpool
			George L. Hall	Boarder	Mar	36	(Artist) Landscape painter	do do

(Extract of 1881 Caernarfonshire piece RG11_5574)

George L Hall turned out to be a water colour artist whose full name was George Lothian Hall as shown on Wikipedia. It appears he had retired to Anglesey and died just seven years after this census was taken, and was buried in Llanfair Pwllgwyngyll.

Below is a copy of the painting from his Wikipedia page which is reminiscent of the view from Anglesey towards Snowdonia, although in this case the image is actually of South Barracks in Gibraltar.

Another site, Brave Fine Art, gives a slightly more detailed biography and actually mentions his time boarding in Llandysilio. It looks like he visited Gibraltar in 1843 which is I assume when the picture on the previous page was painted.

George also did various water colours of places in Wales including the following from the Invaluable Art website of Orme Head in Anglesey.

Families of Army and Navy Personnel

(From Sarah Smart)

Ordinary census schedules are generally those of addresses in residential areas with the order of people in that schedule usually following a predictable pattern in that we have the head of the house followed by their wife, then their children in order from eldest to youngest and finishing off with anyone else who may be living or visiting at the same address.

However when it comes to armed personnel facilities such as Barracks, Lighthouses, and Royal Navy Ships an entire family could still be at the address but not necessary grouped together on the census return.

Take the following schedule from Pembrokeshire 1871 piece RG10_5520 for the stationary ship HMS Nankin docked at Pembroke Dock for example.

Page 2

LIST of the OFFICERS, MEN, BOYS, MARINES, and of ALL OTHER PERSONS on BOARD on the NIGHT of SUNDAY, APRIL 2nd, 1871.

	NAME and SURNAME	RANK and RATING	CONDITION	AGE OF		WHERE BORN
				Males	Females
1	Robert L. Rice	Carpenter's Crew	Single	31		Devonshire - Stoke
2	Robert Williams	AB	Single	25		Devonshire - Topham
3	Martin Burns	AB.	Single	22	-	Ireland - Tipperary
4	Robert C. Bowells	Ordinary	Single	20	-	Essex - Little Bromley
5	William Miller	AB	Single	27	-	Pembrokeshire - Haverfordwest
6	Richard Triggs	AB.	Single	26	-	Devonshire - Chichester
7	Robert Bright	AB.	Single	25	-	France - Paris / British
8	Thomas Jenkins	AB	Married	34	-	Pembrokeshire - Landgoed
9	Cathleen V. Harvey	Wife of Staff Sergeant	Married	-	34	Ireland
10	Margaret Nicholas	Domestic Servant	Single	-	15	Pembrokeshire - Wales
11	Eliza Ann Young	Wife of Sick with Stew.	Married	-	37	Hampshire - Landgoed
12

The persons on both rows 9 and 10 say that they are the "wife of ..." and if one looks, their husbands are both enumerated on an earlier page of the same schedule.

As such the suggestion is if you do come across a person of interest at a place such as an army barracks or navy vessel it may be worth browsing through the rest of the schedule, it is possible that relatives of the person could be listed elsewhere.

The return for the HMS Nankin also included a page for those stationed on the vessel but were absent on census night as seen below.

NOT ON BOARD.

15	Samuel Madder	Ordinary Seaman	Single	20	Devonshire. Newton Abbot

While the return noted that these people were “not to be abstracted” we have transcribed them anyway. With people on a page such as this it is an indication they were enumerated somewhere else, possibly with their own families.

Lazy Enumerators

(From Chris Mahoney)

On occasions I do see a schedule where some of the required information is missing. These could include a name for a young child with name probably not stated as they had not yet been given one or that of a boarder with nothing stated other than they were there with absence of information likely due to the person completing the return not knowing the details.

However I came across one district where the omissions appeared to be the doing of the enumerator. See below for two schedules from Gloucestershire 1851 piece HO107_1973.

No. of House	On the Night of the 30th March, 1851	Head of Family
19	18 Northfield Terrace	William Williams
		E Do
		C Do
		E Do
		H Do
20	17 Northfield Terrace	James Heard
		Ann Do
		L Do
		R Do
		A Do
		A Do

Both schedules show the full name for the head of the house whereas the remainder of the households we only have an initial for the first name. If this was just a once off I would assume that the information given was all the enumerator had to work with. For this district however, almost every schedule is the same, very few full names are given for people beyond the head of the house so it is more likely the inclusion of initials only was the enumerators doing.
